Accentio 2020: Continuous Improvement

Accentio is a new developer conference, initially located in Karlsruhe and first organized by Disy Informationssysteme GmbH in 2019. It targets the topics Java and JavaScript, Web Development and Operations.

Due to circumstances, Accentio 2020 became Accentio Digital and is now an amazing online conference for experienced developers that doesn't need brick and mortar to create a rich atmosphere. The conference provides a great range of technical talks, interactive Q&As, inspiring panels and ignite sessions, and free-form discussions with other participants.

Accentio Digital's motto is continuous improvement, because that's what we as developers are always looking for: improving knowledge, improving skills, and improving code. Improving continuously can be quite a challenge, though, so we want to give our attendees a leg up.

Improving the conference itself is our first goal, especially under the unpredictably changed conditions. That's why we are looking for strong partners to support us in making Accentio Digital as successful as Accentio 2019 - or even better.

Why become partner? The benefits of supporting Accento

Partnering up with Accento comes with many benefits:

Get noticed by your target audience as brand and employer, have an ignite talk slot to tell attendees what makes you special, and be part of a great community.

So how can your company support Accento? There are many ways, from low-level sponsoring to gold-level support, from your logo on our website to your own virtual booth and your logo on all presentations.

We would be pleased if you help us meet the high standards we should be having when it comes to a developer conference like this.
